The CIA's website is definitely down as of the writing of this post, and Anonymous is claiming responsibility

. Given their previous track record, it's pretty safe to assume that this is exactly what it looks like. During their last frenzy after the MegaUpload takedown

, Anonymous claimed to have taken down a slew of other high profile targets, including the DOJ, MPAA, RIAA, and FBI websites

, an attack on the CIA homepage would round out that list nicely. Granted, it's just a DDoS attack, not a more serious breach of security like or anything, but it's still got to sting a bit if you're the CIA.

a leaked phone call
