Facebook - The fountain of IT illiteracy

Written by bad_brain
Thursday, 24 January 2013 19:42 - Last Updated Friday, 25 January 2013 00:31

In the long list of sorts of people I feel nothing but contempt for one group is always good for a rank in the top 5, and you find them on Facebook.

It's a little hard to describe them with one sentence, so I will list some of their modes of behavior, and I am sure you have seen some of them too already waddling through their natural habitat (Facebook and other social retard networks) like chimpanzees on a mix of meth and LSD:

    - they have oh-so-cool artificial middle names. not real nicknames, nobody ever calls them that way in real life (if they would ask for it people would laugh at them), but they would really like to be called that way because:
    - they have a severe personality deficiency. besides their "I am such a bore, maybe a silly middle name will distract from it" strategy they also:
    - try to bloat their empty personality even more by attributing themselves to oh-so-cool (like their middle names) groups like anonymous, illuminati, discordians, or the ymca.

    - they are all extremely intelligent. yes, really. at least that's their excuse for having no education, no halfway decent job, or any skills....they are self-proclaimed victims of an unfair society that treats ~~lazy assholes~~ super-intelligent people bad.
    - besides their extremely superior intelligence they are also ALL experts in EVERYTHING. especially in IT of course....that's because they usually spent half their lives with totally pointless online bullshittery (like "trolling" or posting 24/7 on Usenet [1]). of course they don't have an idea about IT at all....copy&paste googlers they are.

    - they hate everything that has to do with Christians. because you can offend Christians without getting into real danger. it's comfy. no guts needed. but they sell it as some kind of heroic rebellion. go to Iran or Saudi Arabia and insult Allah, you pathetic cowards.

Facebook - The fountain of IT illiteracy

Written by bad_brain
Thursday, 24 January 2013 19:42 - Last Updated Friday, 25 January 2013 00:31

In the last days I stumbled over more and more of those proofs that "survival of the fittest" should really start to play a bigger role again, and what really made me laugh facepalm was the post that can be seen in the pic above. I mean, really....how can those self-proclaimed IT experts with their superior intellignece (