(This is my first exclusive news article, so don't mind the bad formatting :))

The notorious hacker group Anonymous managed to take down the DNS servers for (roughly) seven minutes just a few moments ago. This time employing multiple botnets to compliment the usual LOIC volunteers.

I have been camping their IRC channels and I don't know if they took down Internet world-wide or just the Europe part but I certainly felt the attack.

Official prepared video statement from the Anonymous group can be found here . (it's a private video for the time being, will go live later today, enjoy the exclusive!)

In case they attack again and do more damage this time, Google IP is 173.194.35.178. Feel free to add more just as a precaution.

Stay tuned for more info and IRC logs!
